

Southwell Golf Club

Southwell Golf Club, situated in the heart of the Nottinghamshire countryside, was established in 1993 and enjoys a reputation that is second to none.

It has two contrasting nines – the front nine is set in the middle of the racecourse and is a true test for the best of golfers with plenty of water which highlights the signature 7th green. The back nine holes boasts plenty of trees, so you need to make sure you hit the ball straight!

Experienced pro shop staff, first class caterers and the club's administration team ensure a warm welcome to Southwell Golf Club and that your day is always one to remember.

Bramley Apple

Southwell is the home of the much loved English Bramley cooking apple - first cultivated in Southwell over 200 years ago. The original tree is situated in a private garden on Church Street.

A local girl named Mary Ann Brailsford planted some apple pips in 1809, one of which when planted in her family's garden grew to become the very first Bramley apple tree. Local nurseryman, Henry Merryweather took grafts to establish the fruit, naming the apples after Matthew Bramley the owner of the cottage and garden in 1846.

The Bramley is now famous and much loved throughout the world for its unique flavour and excellent cooking qualities. It remains one of the most widely grown British culinary apples. Every October there is a festival to celebrate the Bramley Apple in Southwell.

The Workhouse

Follow in the footsteps of the Victorian poor as they sought refuge at The Workhouse. This austere building, the most complete workhouse in existence, was built in 1824 as a place of last resort for the poor and needy. Its architecture was influenced by prison design and its harsh regime became a blueprint for workhouses throughout the country. Learn more about those who lived and worked here through events including living history, storytelling and hands-on activities.
